MR. BRYAN'S COMING VISIT

Great Crowd Will Greet
The Distinguished Statesman.

NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

In His Greatest Lecture
"The Prince of Peace."

The Coming of Hon. W. J. Bryan, next Monday night will be a great event for Hopkinsville.

It will be Mr. Bryan's third visit to Hopkinsville. He was here first in 1896 when a brief stop was made at the L. & N. depot during one of his flying trips over the state.

He came next in the fall of 1899 when with Hon. Wm. Goebel he spoke from a platform at the intersection of Main and Ninth streets to a crowd estimated to be the largest ever seen in this city.

This time he comes in his great lecture "The Prince of Peace" said to be his best production. It will be delivered, at the tabernacle at 8 o'clock Monday evening Feb. 20, for the benefit of McLean College.

A great many of the 2,500 seats have already been sold and there is every indication that standing room will be at a premium.

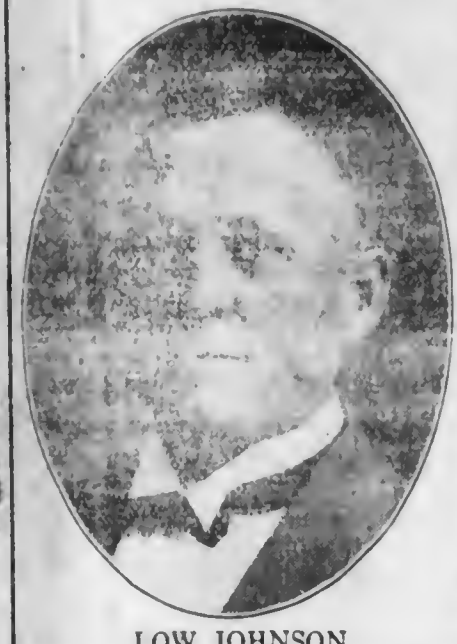

The people of Hopkinsville will tender Mr. Bryan a banquet at Hotel Latham Monday night after the lecture, which will be a most elegant affair. The program will be announced later.

He is a young man of pleasing address and winning personality. At present he has no opposition for the honor he seeks in the primary next May.

IN A BIG MERGER.

Report That Control Will be Vested in Holding Firm.

St. Louis, Feb. 15.—Purchase of the Independent Telephone companies at Kansas City, Omaha, Lincoln, Neb., Topeka, Kan., Joplin, St. Joseph, Carthage and Webb City, Mo., and other cities from Rochester, N. Y., to Denver, Col., by J. P. Morgan & Co., was said by St. Louis telephone officials to be imminent. If purchasing agreements of some of the plants and negotiations on others are carried out they will be taken over by a big holding company, which the Morgan interests are to organize for their independent telephone companies. This holding company will be a part of the community of interests which, through the American Telegraph, control the Bell Telephone Companies and the Western Union Telegraph Company.

BITTY CATHOLIC PREACHER DEAD

Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia Has Fatal Relapse.

Philadelphia, Feb. 13.—Archbishop Patrick J. Ryan, of the archdiocese of Philadelphia, died at 5:10 o'clock Saturday.

A sudden relapse at noon after a week of continued improvement hastened the end, at a time when hope for the aged archbishop's recovery was strong in the hearts of countless thousands, who prayed that he might be spared.

The Archbishop in his more active day was known not only as one of the foremost pulpit orators of America, but also as one of the wittiest of after-dinner speakers.

One time at a dinner in Philadelphia, as an instance, at which Cardinal Gibbons was a guest, the toastmaster, in introducing the archbishop remarked that he was introducing a speaker upon whom the College of Cardinals also would soon "bestow the red hat." The archbishop, with his shock of red hair, stood up and looked benignly toward Cardinal Gibbons.

"I don't have to wait for humans to give me a red hat," said Archbishop Ryan. "God gave it to me when I was born."

Archbishop Ryan was born in Thurles, County Tipperary, Ireland.

Interurbans And Business.

According to the Wall Street Journal, business opinion in Cincinnati estimates that the commercial and financial interests of the city profit to the extent of $50,000,000 annually "as a direct result of trolley communication with the surrounding country and the neighboring towns."

The interurban lines north of the Ohio River are making both cities and rural communities prosperous. They bring business to the cities and they bring convenience and increased values to the country. The city of Indianapolis is a splendid example of the value of trolley lines as an agency for urban growth. In the past decade Indianapolis has built many of these lines, radiating over the State of Indiana, and they have been of immense benefit to the city's commercial interests. In the last ten years Indianapolis made a splendid gain in population, increasing at the rate of 38.1 per cent, and forging ahead of Louisville, which in the same time increased at the rate of 9.4 per cent., coming near making the low record for cities of the 100,000 class. There is little doubt that the splendid showing by Indianapolis is largely due to the development of the interurban business. All of the big cities of Ohio are pretty well supplied with interurban lines, Cleveland and Columbus especially so, and all of them are growing at a rapid rate with the exception of Cincinnati, which made a better showing, however, in the last decade than in the ten years from 1890 to 1900.

Regarding the increase in farm values the Wall Street Journal says: "Census reports for different States frequently show gains of 100 per cent. or more. Not a little of this is among the older portions of the country, and has come from interurban electric roads. It is different with steam roads, because their influence on the value of land depends more largely upon the distance from the stations. The trolley lines, however, have stations everywhere; each farm is a station for passengers and goods."

Kentucky is lamentably lacking in interurban lines and Louisville has been slow to recognize their value. There is a big field in Kentucky for interurban development and Louisville ought to lead the way for other Kentucky cities. As a factor for bigger business the interurban just now seems to be the thing that Louisville mostly needs.—Courier-Journal.

Hopkinsville is in need of just such a system and every encouragement should be given interurban propositions.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Thief," which will be the attraction at Holland's Opera House Feb. 21, tells the story of a woman who steals in order to have money for clothes to win her husband's admiration. That to begin with, is a change from the average play, in which we find a husband or a wife trying to get as far away as possible from the life partner; trying to drown a past, to polish up a present, or do something else along the lines of the divorce courts.

"The Thief" is a woman deeply in love with her husband, and tortured by his indifference. She notices that he has no eyes for her in the simple clothes that she can afford. She knows that she would be as attractive and as interesting as others if she possessed their various attractive trimmings, and she is determined that she will be trimmed and decorated as they are to win her husband's attention.

Mexico's Greatest Man.

In the third of a century which has elapsed since Diaz first became President, Mexico has almost doubled in population, while it has quadrupled in the volume of its industries and commerce, and also quadrupled in wealth. Its credit stands high in the money markets of the world. Two-thirds of Mexico's external trade is with the United States. In Mexican railways, mines, mills and mercantile establishments, Americans have $700,000,000 invested, and the amount is rapidly increasing. With its 14,000,000 of people, Mexico is the largest of all the Latin-American countries, except Brazil. Except Simon Bolivar, Gen. Diaz is the greatest man produced by the Latin-American race.—Leslie's.

We Raise Our Own.

South Africa has prohibited the exporting of ostrich eggs and live birds, and imposes heavy fines for any attempt to evade this rule. It is hoped to corner the feather market, but there are many birds outside of the Cape. Ostrich farms have been established in the South of France, in Belgium, in England and in this country. The largest number of ostriches in one locality outside of South Africa is in the Salt River Valley, Arizona. There are 7,000 birds on farms there and they are raised very successfully. The birds at two years old produce about $25 of feathers a year. Birds are known to live a great age, some reaching 75 years.

Census Director Durand has declined to make any changes in the figures which show the population of Huntsville, Ala., to be less than eight thousand and it seems that the city must suffer from the misrepresentation during the next ten years. The Business Club census showed almost 10,000 people to be resident of the corporate limits, at least two thousand people being found who had not been officially enumerated.

JANE'S ROMANCE

Jane Smith was romantic. In spite of her plain name—or because of it—she dated plain things and plain, practical people. Therefore, despite the fact that she loved him and that she had been his constant companion from childhood and that he was eminently suitable, she refused Tom Anson when he proposed to her in direct and simple language.

"You are waiting for some fairy prince to come along," commented her father, bitterly, when he had extracted the truth from her. "Better come down out of the clouds and accept a good, sensible man while you have the chance. There are not many Tom Ansons."

Shortly after plain Tom Anson had been sent away so unceremoniously Jane was rowing on the small lake that bordered on her father's estate, near the high road, when her canoe upset and she found herself floundering in the water.

At the psychological moment a large motor car rounded a sharp curve in the road, chugging like a red demon, and Jane's heart, beneath her soaked linen bodice, gave a leap.

Her Prince Charming, at last! It was evident that he had seen beauty in distress at the first glance and was gallantly coming to the rescue. The crimson car, with a final, indignant snort, was rounded in off the high road and brought to a standstill. The occupant threw aside cap, goggles and other impediments instantaneously and with incredible speed had reached the water and plunged in.

The handsome stranger carried her, dripping but happy, up the bank. She allowed herself the luxury of leaning against his shoulder until he had dried her face upon a corner of the linen dust coat in the car and made no demur as he placed her on the front seat where he could support her as he steered.

On that short drive homeward she learned all about her handsome rescuer. He was the young Lord Fitz Maurice, to whom the estate adjoining her father's had fallen some years previously; he had just arrived from foreign parts to look over his ancestral property with a view to repairing and, later, inhabiting the old place.

During the next few weeks Jane went about with dreamy eyes. Every afternoon, at a certain hour, she was met near the lake by the mysterious red motor car and when she returned, pink cheeked, from her stolen rido she had listened to more romantic nonsense in two hours than simple Tom Anson would have told her in six months.

It had gone so far that she had promised to marry her brave rescuer, unconditionally, any day and hour that he might name, when one day he begged the privilege of meeting her in her own home.

"In secret, of course, love."

That night, when everyone had retired to the upper regions, it was Jane's own fair hand that unlocked the hall door and at his bidding, left it so, while he made fervid and furious love to her in the drawing room.

When the clock struck 1 a low whistle without caused the young lord to start to his feet hastily.

"What, so late already? Ah, I could linger by your side forever, but duty calls me. Farewell. That was my chauffeur's warning. Tomorrow at the usual trysting place!"

With that he was gone and Jane was about to lock the door behind him. Then, following a romantic impulse—much easier for Jane than simply being sensible—she slipped down to the gate behind him, stealing along in the shadow unobserved. At the gate she had meant to step out and surprise him, but just then a muffled figure rose from behind a clump of syringas and, lifting up a sack in which something clinked, tossed it under the seat of the big red car.

"Got 'em all?" came from her prince in an eager whisper, with a furtive backward glance at the darkened windows of the house behind them.

"Sure," was the laconic answer, and the car and its occupants shot down the road, leaving Jane to stare, open-mouthed, after it.

The explanation came next morning and with it her prince's reasons for maintaining such strict incognito were made clear to Jane.

There was not a piece of silver left in her father's establishment, not even a teaspoon, save some plated stuff that practiced eyes could have told at a glance was practically worthless!

Jane ventured one question as she sat with her father in the library that afternoon—at the hour she should have kept her tryst.

"Do you know when the young Lord Fitz Maurice is coming home?"

"The young lord?" her father stared at her in amazement. "There isn't any young lord. The property went out of the hands of the Fitz Maurices ten years ago and belongs to a bald-headed widower named Griggs."

"Oh," breathed Jane.

That night Tom Anson, encouraged by something in Jane's manner, put the momentous question once more.

And he was promptly and unequivocally accepted.

STARS MADE IN MILKY WAY

New Theory Concerning the Birth of Worlds is Expounded by a Professor From New Zealand.

A theory, with bearing on the birth of new worlds, was explained the other day at the Colonial institute by Professor Bickerton, who has been sent to England by the government of New Zealand and Australia in order to expound his views.

Mr. Bickerton is professor of chemistry and physics in the university of New Zealand. His theory, briefly explained, is this: The countless suns of the Milky Way are known to travel in two great streams of opposite directions. As they pass each other at tremendous speed they attract each other, and in the collisions that occur particles are torn from each star. The two wounded suns pass on their several ways, but the particles coalesce and form a third body—a thing of terrific heat and energy.

These are the bodies known to astronomers as "temporary stars." Owing to the heat involved in its birth such a body explodes and is finally dissipated into atomic dust.

Professor Bickerton asserts that his theory, while successfully accounting for the appearance of temporary stars, proves also that the continual rejuvenescence of the cosmic system is in progress; thus giving evidence of the eternal character of the universe.—London Correspondent New York Times.

ORIGIN OF DOLLAR BILLS.

"That dollar silver certificate you have there has been gathered together from all over the world," said the bank cashier. "Part of the paper fiber is linen rag from the Orient."

"The silk comes from Italy or China. The blue ink is made from German or Canadian cobalt. The black ink is made from Niagara Falls acetylene gas smoke, and most of the green ink is green color mixed in white zinc sulphide made in Germany."

"When the treasury seal is printed in red, the color comes from Central America."

NOT AT ALL ALARMED.

The Cornelia Green chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which will cast the one vote in Missouri for Mrs. William Cummings Story for president general, at the national convention in April, in Washington, is not even disturbed at the insinuation that Mrs. Story is for suffrage. "That is a private matter," said one of the members, "and if we are to bar out all women who are in favor of votes for women there would be few good ones left, I am afraid."

PROPER CHILLS.

"I've had cold chills running over me all day," the thin man complained. "You ought to be glad of that," said his heartless friend. "I don't think I understand you. Why should I be glad?" "Oh, well, you know, it is quite an ordinary thing to have cold chills. There's no cause for alarm. Just think what an extraordinary thing it would be if you should have hot chills running over you."

INTERESTED IN BOTANY.

Miss Cora H. Clarke, daughter of the late Rev. James Freeman Clarke, has made a study of 300 kinds of gulls and has discovered several kinds. She is a fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science and has collections in the natural history rooms of the Horticultural society of Boston.

NATURE IN LOVE WITH YOU

Trees, Flowers, Song of Birds, Roar of Waters Whisper of Winds, All Tell It If You Listen.

As surely as intelligence is everywhere (and life and growth universal make this truth self-evident) all nature is in love with you at this moment. Be still and know. Real love is spiritual power which makes you realize its verity in your own individual being. The very atmosphere of heaven all about you is love's breath; the trees and flowers express their love for you, and wave their leaves in loving greetings; the birds wake early to call you with their theme of love, and the winds whisper it in their matins and vespers; the tides tell it to the rugged shores, and the waves dash high in their eagerness to show you the depths of the ocean's love; the rivers roar it, and the brooks and branches sing a ceaseless lullaby of love to you; the stars twinkle their love upon the earth, and leap for joy of telling you how much you are loved and cared for; the skies bend above you to symbolize the measureless love and protection, and the mountains and hills woo you to lay their treasures of wealth at your feet.—Life.

DEACON JONES WAS NARROW

Reproved Parson Brownslow for Working on the Sabbath Day to Resuscitate Two Half-Drowned Boys.

Bishop John L. Uelsen, in an address in Omaha, said of intolerance: "These intolerant people make me think of young Parson Brownslow."

"Parson Brownslow, one Sunday morning, was passing a pond when two young skaters went through the ice. The parson, a good swimmer, plunged into the cold, black water promptly, and after a deal of diving and floundering and struggling, he managed to rescue the two boys. He laid their limp forms on the bank side by side and then he began to work their arms vigorously, so as to restore animation, when a deep, reproachful voice called from the road: "Parson!"

"He looked up and beheld the frowning visage of Deacon Jones. "Parson," said the deacon, "six days shalt thou labor!"

NEW IRISH BIRD.

Mr. Collingwood Ingram, a well known naturalist, has discovered in the pine woods of County Sligo, Ireland, an entirely new indigenous bird to be added to the list of British birds. Such an event has not occurred for nearly fifty years.

The new bird is allied to the coal tit (Parus ater), which, although it is distributed throughout the world in varied forms, in no instance has a distinctive variation so pronounced as in the new species, in which the parts of the plumage that in all other tits are pure white assume a clear sulphurous yellow hue. These parts are the cheeks and a spot on the back of the neck.—London Daily Mail.

THE GRAND CANYON.

Three features of the canyon strike one at once; its unparalleled magnitude, its architectural forms and suggestions, and its opulence of color effects—a chasm nearly a mile deep and from ten to twenty miles wide, in which Niagara would be only as a picture upon your walls, in which the pyramids, seen from the rim, would appear only like large tents, and in which the largest building upon the earth would dwindle to insignificant proportions.—John Burroughs, in Century.

STRICT SUMPTUARY LAWS.

Cape Town once lived under so severe a code of sumptuary laws that anything like displays was restricted to the governor and his immediate circle. Thus runs article VI of the Dutch laws against luxury and ostentation: "No one less in rank than a junior merchant and those among the citizens of equal rank and the wives and daughters only of those who are or have been members of any council shall venture to use umbrellas. In practice this restricted the possession and use of umbrellas to about fifty persons in Cape Town."

CONSOLATION.

Mrs. Henpeck—If I were to die, would you marry again, John?
Mr. Henpeck—Well—er—not right away. I'd take a little rest first.—Judge.

NEW ROAD TO DISTINCTION

G. W. Perkins Says Men Who Could Be Enormously Rich but Won't Will Have Best Reputations.

George W. Perkins, who has severed his connection with the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., in order to devote his time to public work, said the other day at a Union League club dinner that he had made up his mind that a man could no longer obtain distinction in America by the mere making of money—that was too common.

Mr. Perkins implied that for the future the highest and most distinguished reputations in this country will be achieved by men who could be enormously rich but won't—men who devote exceptional financial talents to the solution of economic problems—in the interest of the people. Speaking still more recently before the Quill club, Mr. Perkins unfolded his meaning at some length. He undertook to speak of corporations, capital, labor and profits as if he were a financial expert retained as an attorney for the public. Nobody will deny that the public is in sore need of skillful economic counsel. And if Mr. Perkins succeeds in establishing his credit as a disinterested public adviser he will, indeed, have found a new road to distinction—a path fresh with the dew of the morning.—New York American.

TEACHING YOUTH TO SAVE

Philanthropic Plan of Henry Crandall Seems Strange but is Based on Common Sense.

Believing that if the instinct to save is inculcated in youth it will become an established trait through life, Henry Crandall of Glens Falls, N. Y., on the last day of 1910 called around him 100 boys from the ages of twelve to sixteen and made them this offer: "I will open a bank account of $25 for each of you, on condition that each boy add to it at least $35.50. When this is done I will add $37.50, thus assuring at least $100. Then for every dollar up to $50 additional I will add a dollar, thus assuring at least $200. The account is to remain until the holder is twenty-one years old and is then to be at his disposal."

The proposal appeared so fair and liberal that 50 of the boys have accepted the terms. If they persist in their efforts it can be seen that each will have a good-sized amount to his credit on his twenty-first birthday. Mr. Crandall has proposed a strange philanthropy, but it is founded in common sense and must appeal to young men who are made of the right stuff.

OUR LOW PHILOSOPHY.

A vice is always worst when it is not recognized as a vice, when men are not on their guard against it. The Romans thought cruelly manly. We sometimes think hypocrisy to be virtue and religion. We do not greatly love life and enjoy it. But, oh, how we fear death. This makes men mean and cowardly and teaches a low philosophy of petty cunning, selfishness, even graft. It destroys joy and all that health of the mind which cannot get along without joy. So we think we are doing right when we are doing wrong—and we call it prudence. A man always afraid of death is no good at all—like a bird in a cage. He will never go up against anything or do anything unless fear compels. No doubt the fear-of-death man makes up the largest part of the "near-rational" suicides.

WEDDING-CAKE PAGODA.

At Mingun, on the right bank of the Irrawaddy river, about five miles from Mandalay, in Burma, there stands a peculiar pagoda known as the Wedding-Cake pagoda. It was built in the early part of the nineteenth century, and is in thoroughly good preservation, only a few of the images inside having been broken. The extreme heights to the top of the minaret is 80 feet, and the circumference about 600 feet. The pagoda stands back from the river some 300 feet, and is hidden from it by a grove of teak trees. Close to it is the famous Mingun bell.—Wide World.

BUT HE GOT IT.

Snapp—Stop, madam! You know I am strictly opposed to a third term.

A Valentine Entertainment.

On Feb. 14th the "Julien Book Club" charmingly entertained the "Church Hill Book Club," at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stowe from 3 to 6 p. m. Dame Cupid smiled upon the occasion, the sun never shone brighter; and Italy's skies could not have been bluer. A large number of invited guests were in attendance besides the club members and every one had a thoroughly good time.

A specially nice feature was the "leige lords" were expected, and enjoyed it if possible more than the ladies.

The entire home was beautifully decorated in red and white draperies, with hearts galore. The rooms were lighted with red and white wax tapers.

A delightful programme of vocal and instrumental music was rendered during the entire afternoon some very fine selections being given.

Games of Cupid and Hearts were much enjoyed, most of them being entirely new and unique. Each guest was given a heart and requested to write an original Valentine, which was afterwards read aloud, this being a very amusing feature. Another interesting feature was the shooting with Cupid's bow and arrow at an immense red heart which brought down a lovely souvenir to each marksman. Delicious refreshments were served, consisting of a salad course, brick cream and angel cake in hearts, (red and white being throughout the refreshments) and stuffed figs.

It was in every way a lovely party, decidedly the most notable social even of the season.

"I knew, I knew it could not last. 'Twas sweet 'twas lovely but 'tis past."

ELKS HAD A MERRY TIME

Celebrated Anniversary With a Social Session Thursday Night.

MUSIC AND ORATORY

Topped Off With An Array Of Good Things To Eat.

The eleventh anniversary of the establishment of Hopkinsville Lodge No. 545, B. P. O. E. was celebrated Tuesday night with an informal social session at 8 o'clock, following a short session of the lodge.

Col. Jogett Henry acted as toast master in his usual graceful and happy style and the more formal exercises took place in the lodge room before refreshments were served. A sextette of old fiddlers by invitation rendered several selections and the first number was by this orchestra, consisting of W. F. Randle, T. E. Bartley, Robt. McCarroll, F. L. Waller, Bailey Waller and S. E. Yancey.

Next came Geo. W. Walker in his famous song entitled "The Preacher and the Bear," which is good enough to put Mr. Walker in the ranks of Vaudeville artists.

Dr. M. W. Williams was then called upon and responded with a funny story told at the expense of Exalted Ruler C. R. Clark.

Mr. T. E. Bartley next rendered a violin solo, a lively piece that provoked prolonged applause.

C. K. Clark proved to be the chief orator of the occasion, after beginning his speech with a story that evening up things with Dr. Williams.

A vocal quartette composed of Messrs. C. R. Duke, Guy Barnett, E. N. Roper and Dr. L. A. Tate, rendered and sang with such success that another was demanded.

Mr. H. W. Linton was the next speaker and his speech was in an exceedingly happy vein with a fine flow of humor and anecdote.

Chas. M. Meacham was also called upon and briefly responded.

Prof. Shrode then entertained the crowd for fifteen minutes with some of his wonderful sleight of hand tricks.

This concluded the program and the members and visitors repaired to the dining rooms, where light refreshments were served and cigars passed around.

The old fiddlers were then forced to return to the lodge room and play stirring old-time pieces for an hour before the gay crowd would consent to break up.

The occasion turned out to be a largely attended and most pleasant one.

A covetous man makes no friends.

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at all druggists.

Made from harmless, vegetable ingredients, Cardui is a safe, reliable remedy, and has been successfully used by weak and ailing women for more than fifty years. Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and it's the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. IN VAUDEVILLE.

Dr. Cook Appears and Again Says He Reached Pole.

New York, Feb. 14.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook broke into vaudeville Monday at the Manhattan Opera House, where with the "Eight Original Berlin Madcaps" he was one of the headliners. In the first part of his act he wandered through some faked moving pictures and discovered the North Pole on the screen. Then he wandered through a ten-minute speech full of bitterness against the press, Peary and the "Arctic Trust."

The doctor was booked as "The Well-known Arctic Explorer," and, according to the programme, was to lecture on some of the inner and hitherto undisclosed data regarding the polar controversy, but he didn't say a single new thing.

"To the best of my knowledge and belief I reached the North Pole," said Dr. Cook.

He was through with diplomacy, he said, and would now seek with a knife the brutes who had attacked him. "Peary deprived me of all of my belongings," he continued, "in the guise of a relief station. It was an underhand effort to kill a brother explorer. People will say that I am doing this for money, but Mr. Hammerstein is not paying me one cent for my appearance here." The audience received Dr. Cook cordially.

Artist Of First Rank.

Miss Corinne Parrent, one of our social favorites, has given a number of special recitals this season, and has won fame most unusual. At every place she has appeared, the critics have been unanimous in their praise of her artistic work. She has been visiting in South Ga. recently, and gave a reading at Moultrie, the evening of Feb. 2.

The following notice is from "Moultrie, Ga. Daily." "Miss Par-rent appeared at our largest theatre last evening to a crowded house. It was her first appearance here, and her audience was unconsciously in an ultra-critical frame of mind, because of the enthusiastic and flattering press comments of her work at other places. Instantly Miss Parrent disarmed criticism by the elegant and modest poise of her charming stage manner. Her work more than lived up to the reputation which preceded her.

Her program ran the entire gamut from the ridiculous to the sublime, and each number proclaimed her an artist of the very first rank. Her voice is wonderfully sweet and well moderated. Her enunciation, and inflection, the sympathy and insight she brings to her reading, her unusual knowledge of dramatic and comedy values, combined to make her work the best ever seen here, and has very justly placed her as "The Reader" of our Southland.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Who Was There That You Knew?

In the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory 37 years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years; they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review of Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

When Dear Friends Meet

With a little shriek of joy the girl with the imitation mink hat pulled down on her head like a hood into the arms of the young woman with the mesh bag, vanity case and several other metal trinkets dangling from her wrist.

"Why, Sadie!" she cried, "I haven't seen you for an age! How are you?" "Fine!" said the girl with the mesh bag. "The powder shows on your nose; dear—and rub your left cheek, for you've got the color too high! Where've you been keeping yourself?"

"Oh, I have been so busy going to things!" said the girl with the mink hat. "It's funny I never see you out anywhere, but then, I suppose a person can't go out if she doesn't get invitations. You've run your right eye-brow a bit above the line, dear. You ought never to use an eyebrow pencil except in a strong light."

"Thank you," said the girl with the mesh bag, fervently. "You ought to know about those things, if any one does. My eyebrows are real, as it happens! No, I don't care to run around with mixed crowds—that's why you haven't seen me. I prefer more select entertainment and then I have so many callers that I am kept in a good deal. Tom said just the other night that it seemed perfectly impossible ever to get a word with me alone, because there always were so many other men there!"

"Oh, is Tom coming to see you?" languidly asked the girl with the mink hat. "Poor fellow! I suppose anything to distract him and fill up his time is what he seeks. He's nice and all that, but he isn't my style and I had to let him down gently for his own sake!"

"No, you aren't Tom's style," agreed the girl with the mesh bag, sweetly. "He is so refined and quiet and hates display. He has such beautiful manners, don't you think?"

"Oh, you might think so," admitted the girl with the fur hat, "but to a person who has had a lot of experience with many different men, Tom is sadly in poise and assurance, dear! You'd know at once that he wasn't used to mingle in the best society."

"Dear me!" said the other girl. "You must be awfully mad at Tom for not calling."

Her friend raised her brows in apparent surprise. "Why, I wouldn't say anything against Tom for the world!" she exclaimed. "I was just telling you my private opinion of him! I'm so glad you can find something interesting in him, because it's nice for you to have some one calling, and as for him, I suppose one girl is very like another now. I'm sure I did all I could to make him see how useless it was for him to fall in love with me—there, I never meant to say a word! Just forget it, dear!"

"So Tom was in love with you, was he?" cried the girl with the mesh bag. "I guess you wouldn't think so, if you could hear what he has said to me! And I guess when a man calls twice a week regularly as he does on me and never looks at another girl, he isn't very heartbroken over anyone else! Mercy, I almost dropped my vanity case and I wouldn't mar it for the world—Tom gave it to me Christmas!"

"Yes, I was noticing it," said the girl with the fur hat. "How nicely it polished up! It got scratched quite a little the short time I carried it. Tom made such a fuss about my refusing it that I had to keep it a little while. My birthday last September, you know, I never accept presents of any value from a man—it's so ill-bred. Of course, this being a cheap one, I suppose I might have kept it, but I'm peculiar about those things!"

"I don't suppose," said the owner of the vanity case in tones of concentrated fury, "that you also happened to notice that my initials are cut on this in a big monogram?"

"They're very clever nowadays at the shops in erasing one set of letters and putting on another, aren't they?" inquired the young woman with the mink hat, casually. "I'm glad you like it—I never need powder and rouge, so it didn't appeal to me. Doesn't Tom ever take you to the theater or anywhere? I haven't seen you with him. When I knew him he was such a theater-goer—I actually had to scold him the way he bought tickets!"

"We always sit in the parquet when we go," said the girl with the vanity case. "That's why you haven't seen us—you can't distinguish who people are from the balcony, you know. Well, I must be running along. I'm going to meet Tom for lunch. So glad to have met you!"

"Good by!" snapped the girl with the fur hat. "I hope you'll have a lovely time! Mercy! Tom would bore me to death! Give him my love, dear!"

Logical Opposition.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, advocating woman suffrage in New York, said:

"I have never heard in all my life a single syllable of logical opposition to woman suffrage. The average opposition is neither better nor worse than the argument of a certain carter."

"Ah," he growled, "wot would women do with a vote if they had it? Contrary critics! Why, if I says to my old woman, 'Gimme liver and bacon for dinner,' do I git it? Naw! I git tripe and onions."

Weak Over-worked Women

Who are broken down and made invalids by the drudgery of never ending household cares and duties, or by over-frequent bearing and nursing of children, and many other cares, burdens and strains which the weaker sex have to bear, are deserving of profound sympathy. But while sympathy is commendable what these unfortunate women most need is a good, honest, square-deal Restorative Tonic and Strength-giving Nerve and Regulator—one compounded and carefully adapted to act in harmony with woman's peculiar, delicate, ever sensitive organization.

Who so well fitted to select, carefully proportion the ingredients and compound a remedy for the cure of these distressing and often pain-wracking weaknesses and derangements, as the carefully and thoroughly educated and regularly graduated physician who has had a long and successful experience in treating just this class of cases.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

THIS MEDICINE IS

THE ONE REMEDY Now, and for over 40 years, sold by druggists for Woman's Peculiar Weaknesses, and Distressing Ailments, gotten up by one having all of the above qualifications.

THE ONE REMEDY which absolutely contains neither alcohol (which to most Women is rank poison) nor injurious or habit-forming drugs.

THE ONE REMEDY which is so perfect in its composition and so good in its curative effects as to warrant its makers in printing its every ingredient, as they do, on its outside wrapper, verifying the same under solemn oath.

In all the above most important particulars, the "Favorite Prescription" stands absolutely alone—in a class all by itself—as woman's most reliable and trust-worthy remedy in time of sickness and distress. It is a pure glyceric extract made from American curative roots, found by long time experience most valuable in curing woman's weaknesses and derangements. The leaders in all schools of medical practice have endorsed each of its ingredients as of the best known remedies for the complicated affections for which it is recommended. These professional endorsements should count for far more than any number of lay testimonials. A booklet full of them sent free on receipt of name and address. GOOD THINGS TO EAT

FOUR RECIPES FOR CAKES AND COOKIES OF GERMANY.

Blitz Kuchen, Platten, German Almond
Cookies and Sirup Kuchlein Are Not Difficult to Make and All
Will Enjoy them.

Blitz Kuchen.—Mix to a cream three cups fine sugar and one cupful butter. Add six eggs and three cupfuls of flour. Spread this batter on greased pans so thin that you can almost see the bottom of the pans. Sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and chopped nuts of any kind, and bake to a light brown in a moderate oven. As soon as removed from the oven cut at once into squares before it hardens, as it is difficult to lift out whole without breaking.

Platten.—Use for this two cupfuls powdered sugar, the yolks of four eggs, a pinch each of cinnamon and cloves and flour to stiffen. Beat the egg yolks until light and foamy, stir in the sugar gradually, beat thoroughly, then add spices and flour enough to allow the batter to drop from a spoon into a greased tin. Leave room enough to spread without touching.

German Almond Cookies.—Beat the yolks of six eggs until light, then add one cupful and a half of sugar that has been beaten to a cream with three-fourths cupful softened butter. Add a cupful blanched, chopped almonds, one tablespoonful cinnamon and three cupfuls of flour. Beat hard and drop by small spoonfuls onto a buttered pan, putting an almond on top of each cake. Bake in a moderate oven.

Sirup Kuchlein.—Melt two scant cupfuls lard and add to it two cupfuls molasses, one teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful salt, a teaspoonful soda dissolved in a little hot water, one well-beaten egg and sifted flour, adding the flour a little at a time until the dough is thick enough to roll out.

Cut in fancy shapes and bake in a moderate oven.

Frozen Pudding.

Split two dozen lady fingers and dip in sherry. In a double boiler scald two cupfuls of cream, pour over the yolks of six eggs and three-quarters of a cupful of sugar beaten together; mix, return to the double boiler and stir over the fire until it thickens. Strain and when cool flavor with one teaspoonful of vanilla. Put in a freezer and turn until it begins to thicken. Add one pint of cream, whipped, and freeze for five minutes longer. Stand a mold in a little ice and salt. In the bottom put a layer of the frozen cream, then some of the lady's fingers and a tablespoonful of apricot jam, then another layer of cream. Fill up in the same order until all is used, having the last layer cream. Cover, bind the edges with a buttered cloth and bury the mold in ice and salt. Stand aside for two hours.

Scotch Currant Buns.

Two pounds bread dough, one-half pound lard, two pounds currants, two pounds raisins, one-half pound orange peel, one-half pound almonds, one pound sugar, tablespoon caraway seeds, one ounce ground ginger, one ounce cinnamon. Put lard on top of dough and set on end of stove to slowly melt, then take all the fruit, sugar and spice, which has to be thoroughly minced and mixed, and add to dough on baking board. Put it into cake pan and press into shape. Make a very tough pie crust, roll out thin, turn out bun on crust and cover all over. Put back into pan again and prick top with fork. Rub over with yolk of egg. Bake in slow oven for about three hours.

Red Cabbage Relish.

Remove all the loose leaves and the hard white part of a red cabbage, divide into fourths, and run through a meat chopper. Wash in a sieve and put in a granite kettle with one pint of water and two heaping tablespoonfuls of nice bacon fat. Add one-half cupful of white wine vinegar, three heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar, a pinch of pepper, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, salt to taste, and three or four good sized tart apples. Cover and cook about two hours. Stir often to prevent burning. It must not be moist. This is nice to serve with roast goose or turkey.

Cocoanut Pound Cake.

One-half cup of butter, two cups of sugar, one cup of milk and five eggs, beaten to a stiff froth; one teaspoon of soda and two of cream of tartar stirred into four cups of sifted flour. Beat the butter and sugar until very light, to which add the beaten yolks, then the milk, the beaten whites of eggs, then the flour by degrees. After heating all well together add a small cocoanut, grated. Line the cake pans with paper, well buttered, and fill little more than half full and bake in a moderate oven.

Pea Purée.

Press half a can of peas through a sieve, retaining the remainder for another meal. Place one pint of milk in a tablespoon of flour, mixed with an equal amount of butter. Cook it until creamy, then add the pea purée and season with pepper and salt, or the flour may be omitted and the whole can of peas used, which will make it thick enough. Dried peas can be used in place of canned and are cheaper, but must be soaked over night and then boiled before adding to the milk.

PEPPER NUTS ARE VERY RICH

How to Make These Favorite Small Cakes That Will Keep Well for a Long Time.

These are a favorite small cake that may be made in quantity and kept on hand for special occasions. Cream together one cup of butter, one of lard and two of brown sugar. Add three eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Then add the spices—one grated nutmeg, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon and two of anise seed, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, four spoonfuls whole coriander, one cupful chopped almonds and one-eighth chopped citron. Next add four cups of molasses with which have been mixed two teaspoonfuls of soda dissolved in a little warm water and four with which four teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar have been sifted, using flour to make a stiff dough. Knead with the hands until well mixed and smooth, then roll out on a floured board into long rolls about an inch in diameter. With a sharp knife cut into slices a quarter of an inch thick. Bake in a quick oven to light brown, and when cold put into a tin cake box, where they will keep for a long time.

The Home

To remove black ink stains on children's colored frocks, etc., cover them immediately with red ink and then wash. In this way the damage may be made good, not a trace of either ink remaining.

When the lemons from which you are about to extract the juice for cooking are brought cold from the store-room the juice will be extracted easier if the lemons are warmed a trifle.

To destroy moths put the moth-infested articles into a baker's oven which has just been used for baking. Let them remain there over night and in the morning take them out and shake and beat them in the open air.

Many women who do not venture to prepare caramel at home because of the danger of burning instead of browning the sugar do not know that the druggist has it at its best. Delicious custard is made with maple sugar for sweetening and caramel for coloring and the two flavors blend excellently. The caramel is useful for coloring sauces as well as for flavoring custards and creams.

Hickory Nut Cake.

Beat to a cream one-half cup of butter and two cupfuls of sugar. Add the yolks of two eggs beaten light and stirred in with a cupful of rich milk. Sift together in another bowl three cups of pastry flour, a teaspoonful of cream of tartar and one-half teaspoonful of soda. Mix with the other ingredients, beat, then fold in two cupfuls of chopped hickory or walnut meats and two cups of seeded raisins dredged with flour.

Fold in the whites of two fresh eggs beaten to a froth and bake for an hour in a moderate oven. The cake may be flavored with a grating of nutmeg, a bit of mace or vanilla as preferred.

Currant Buns.

One and a half cups warm sweet milk, one cup sugar, one cup yeast or one yeast cake (if yeast cake is used dissolve in cup of lukewarm water), one-half cup of butter, one cup currants. Make a stiff batter. Let rise over night. In the morning stir in as much flour as you can with a spoon. Let it rise again, then knead in enough flour to make out in small cakes, let rise again and bake in quick oven. Two eggs may be used in the morning, if liked.

Tomato Curry.

Cook two tablespoonfuls of butter with one-half tablespoonful finely chopped onion until yellow. Add one sour apple, pared, cored and chopped. Cook eight minutes. Add one-half cup rice stock, two cups canned tomatoes, one-half tablespoonful curry powder, one teaspoonful vinegar. When it boils add one teaspoonful salt and one salt-spoonful pepper and one cup hulled rice. Cook five minutes.

Floor Polisher.

If you have no weighted brush on a long handle to keep hard floors in condition, a good substitute can be found by removing the brushes from an old sweeper and covering the opening first with a thin board or heavy cardboard, then with a piece of carpet that is thick and soft.

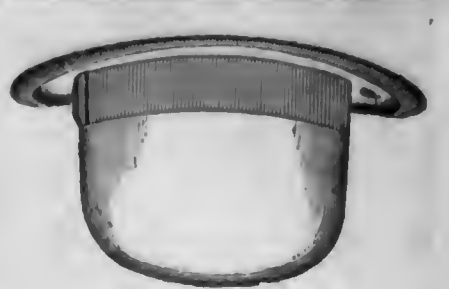

If you cannot get enough pressure with the movable handle it can be made firm with wires or nails.

Mince Pie.

The origin of this famous dish is involved in fable. Some people suppose that the spices used in the delectable filling are traceable to the offerings of the wise men of the east. Long ago mince pies were of an oblong shape.

DAWSON ON A BIG BOOM

French Syndicate To Open
Up Undeveloped Coal Fields.

Dawson Feb., 15.—A deal that means much to West Kentucky has just been closed by which the Arcadia Hotel property at Dawson Springs, Kentucky, passes by lease, with the option to purchase, to a company that proposes to develop the property, and if that be finally determined upon $250,000 will be expended in the erection of a modern hotel on the beautiful hill in the park just back of the present hotel. For thirty years the Arcadia property, which includes an eight acre park, has been owned and operated by the Holemans at a handsome profit each year during that period and they have steadfastly refused all previous offers for the property until now they are practically offered a fortune for it.

A modern system of water works are now being installed at Dawson Springs; and at the late election that city voted in favor of a bond issue to install a system of sewerage, and it is expected to have those improvements completed early this summer. The representatives from France of a French syndicate, are now in Hopkins county, in which Dawson Springs is located, and have bought and now paying over to the land owners $600,000 for the mineral rights on 40,000 acres of coal lands beginning at the city limits of Dawson Springs and extending over towards Providence and Madisonville, and the syndicate will open coal mines this summer within two miles of Dawson Springs. According to the statistics, Hopkins county, Kentucky ranks as the largest soft coal producing county in the world. The survey has just been completed for a railroad from near Hopkinsville Kentucky, through Dawson Springs and on to Madisonville. And it is understood that it will penetrate the coal fields of the French syndicate. While millions of foreign capital are being invested in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, the rich resources of Western Kentucky are not being overlooked. Some hotel men of national prominence, who have investments in Kentucky and Tennessee, have for some time regarded Dawson Springs as eventually becoming a health resort of national fame, and it is the general impression that they are behind the deal that has just been made for the Arcadia property; the development which, together with the opening of the new coal fields, and the additional railroad, will make Dawson Springs a city of thousands, and do much towards the further development of Western Kentucky.

BRYAN SPECIAL
